About Global Health Management

Managing Vision. Creating Results.

Global Health Management is a privately held healthcare development and management company formed with the goal of helping our client partners achieve their business objectives.

The vision of each client partner is always at the forefront of our planning and implementation process. Through continuous feedback, we ensure that all expectations and goals are mutually shared and achieved.

Unique to our company model is the way in which we match our team of highly experienced executives, representing every sector of healthcare, specifically to our client partner needs. This process of executive and project matching ensures direct, timely and customized engagements, focusing on only those aspects of the business our client partner desires.

Our teams of healthcare and business leaders from across North America are engaged to bring unsurpassed expertise and knowledge to our client partners worldwide. This expertise helps produce lasting results after the initial engagement period.

Global Health Management strives to forge lasting relationships, far beyond our professional engagements, producing life-long partnerships. We believe, by doing so, our team can develop a better understanding of goals and business strategies, producing world class results for patients and investors.

Executive Biographies

Global Experience. World Class Results.

Kirk Soileau
Chief Executive Officer

Mr. Soileau has over 30 years of progressive operational and senior executive leadership in public, not-for-profit, faith based and for-profit hospitals and health systems with proven strengths in facility construction development and program organizational design, turn around strategies and initiatives, new program/service development, fiscal and labor management, physician relations, investor syndication, regulatory and licensure compliance, customer service, marketing and communications management. He holds undergraduate diploma and degrees from Charity Hospital School of Nursing, New Orleans, LA and Bachelor of Arts in Health Administration from the University of St. Francis, Joliet, IL. Additionally, Mr. Soileau obtained a Masters of Health Administration with an emphasis in finance and organizational design from Tulane University's School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine, New Orleans, LA.

Immediately prior to forming GHM, Mr. Soileau was System CEO of an acute care healthcare company headquartered in Houston, Texas where he was responsible for leading the three-hospital network through an impressive turn-around. Having joined the system initially as a consultant to assess the hospitals under Chapter 11 reorganization, Mr. Soileau assumed the CEO position and led the organization out of bankruptcy, reestablishing revenue from zero to $42MM per month in less than 120 days. The system successfully transferred ownership and passed all Medicare conditions of participation surveys, achieved positive EBITDA 90 days ahead of budget, reduced operating costs by 15%, added new services such as L&D, cardiac and nephrology service lines as well as overseeing physician recruitment and limited physician syndication strategies.

Mr. Soileau has held positions in teaching and non-profit public and faith based organizations. He has served as an educator, various department manager positions, progressive supervisory roles and in the capacities as hospital and health system vice-president, COO and CEO positions.
