

It's Migration time!

Come join us & learn the basics of Birding!
Experience endangered pine rockland habitat in South Florida!

This Saturday, December 1, 2007, from 7AM –10:00AM at SW 146th Street & SW 67th Avenue, you can participate in a volunteer workday designed to help you appreciate South Florida on the fly! Volunteers will be taught the basics of birding. Expert birders will provide guidance in binocular use, birding techniques and identification. Since this site is not yet open to the public, this is an exclusive opportunity to see this rare pineland and enjoy a look at some of our winter avian tourists. This event is presented to you by the Department of Environmental Resources Management Environmentally Endangered Lands Program and the Department of Parks & Recreation Natural Areas Management.

For more information please call
305-257-0933x227.

