2013 MIAMI HAMFEST TROPICAL HAMBOREE TO TAKE PLACE ON FEBRUARY 1 & 2

Miami, FL, Jan 7, 2013.- The 47th Miami Tropical Hamboree, a trade show and exhibition event focused on: Ham Radio, Electronics and other technology oriented hobbies will be held at the Miami-Dade Fair Expo Center on: Friday February 1st and Saturday February 2nd.

The Miami Hamfest offers the opportunity to learn about Amateur Radio communications and related technologies as well as a chance buy and sell all sorts of gadgets, radio gear, computer parts and software. A multitude of vendors will be offering items ranging from antique radios to the latest in military surplus. This event is also a meeting ground for amateur radio operators all over.

"We are pleased to bring back this event to its original venue and to invite the community at large to learn more about the role that Amateur Radio operations play during natural disasters" said Miguel Garate, president of the Dade Radio Club of Miami.

There will be amateur radio stations setup on the grounds. Come take a look, ask questions, and even get on the microphone with the help of one of our licensed operators.

For individuals wishing to receive their F.C.C. amateur radio license, exams will be offered onsite Saturday at 8am.

Tickets are $12.00. Students under 18 will be admitted for free. See website for details.
