APPENDIX 'A'

The Inter-American Conference of Mayors and Local Authorities

A Brief Overview

For the last eleven years, Miami-Dade County Government has sponsored (and Florida International University has organized for it) the Inter-American Conference of Mayors and Local Authorities. The idea of organizing such an annual conference in Miami-Dade County originated with County Commissioner, Sen. Javier D. Souto and this event rapidly emerged as the largest and most important annual gathering of people concerned with local democracy in the Hemisphere. Over the years the event has received extensive newspaper, television and radio coverage throughout the Hemisphere and has served to significantly demonstrate Miami-Dade County's leadership in the promotion of democracy and good governance in the Americas.

The Inter-American Conference of Mayors has played an important role in shaping the discussions regarding the strengthening of local governments in the Americas. This has been demonstrated by its contributions to the Organization of American State's Summit of the Americas Process and many other comparable events. Indeed, it was a result of efforts originating from the Conference that produced the first recognition by the Hemisphere's Presidents of the importance of local governance for democracy in the region as reflected in the Declaration of the Quebec Summit of 2001.

- Over the past eleven years the Inter-American Conference of Mayors has brought to Miami-Dade County about 5,780 local leaders, senior government officials, legislators, governors and senior administrators of the Americas and about 10,700 accompanying visitors to the County. It should be noted that conference attendees cover all of their own participation costs.

- Among the participants from Latin America have been many of the leading figures in the Hemisphere including the chief executives of such cities as Bogota, Medellin and Cali, Colombia; Quito, Ecuador; Panama City, Panama; Guatemala City, Guatemala; San Salvador, El Salvador; Santiago, Chile; Cordoba, Argentina; Tegucigalpa, Honduras; Asuncion, Paraguay; Santa Cruz, Bolivia; Lima, Peru; Monterrey, Mexico; etc.

- Senior high ranking officials of the US Government routinely attend the Conference. In the past these have included the Secretary of US Department of Housing and Urban Development; various assistants to the President of the United States including the White House Representative for Local Governments; the Deputy Director of the US Agency for International Development; US Ambassador to the Organization of American States; and the President of the Inter-American Foundation among others.

- Key leaders of major international organizations have routinely participated. Among them have been the President of the Inter-American Development Bank; the Secretary General of the Organization of American States; senior officials of the World Bank and the United Nations; etc.

- The Inter-American Conference of Mayors has brought to the local hotel industry over $660,000 just in room revenue. About $85,800 in local taxes have been related to those rooms (@13%).

- If we assume that each attendee has spent at least $500 in shopping, dining and entertainment, the Conference has brought about $2,640,000 to the local economy in the past ten years. This number would be much more if we were to estimate what the accompanying persons have spent while in Miami-Dade County.

It's been said about the Conference:

"It's been a great pleasure attending the Inter-American Conference of Mayors. It's a very enriching and interesting experience, even more so because of the attendance by so many people from different countries. The experiences discussed were all relevant. We want to thank you also for the great experience we personally had in that beautiful County".

Hon. Armida Villela de Lopez Contreras, Vice President of Honduras

"...The important contribution and the efforts made by your organization...significantly enriched the Summit Process and increased hemispheric cooperation with regard to the goals of the Fourth Summit of the Americas including job creation, democratic governance, citizen participation, and the promotion of human rights."

Mr. Luis Alberto Rodriguez, Director, Summit of the Americas Secretariat, Organization of American States

"...this (The Inter-American Conference of Mayors) venue, is an open space of discussion and analytical reflection that benefits all the local governments of Latin America... and it has become a central point of reference for all of us..."

Hon. Enrique Riera Escudero, Mayor of Asuncion, Paraguay

"I consider forums like this one as an incredible opportunity to share with different people very diverse experiences...The possibility of discussing initiatives with representatives from other cities is an invaluable opportunity...I am convinced that the Conferences is the ideal scenario for the discussion of themes related to the strengthening of democracy, local development and decentralization".

Hon. Sergio Fajardo Valderrama, Mayor of Medellin, Colombia

"...the Mayors conference is a unique venue, in that it brings together local officials from throughout the region, permitting them to interact and exchange information with their colleagues, identify and work together on common challenges and improve their own knowledge and skills...the conference is a valuable tool for building and strengthening capacity in the Americas for more effective local governance."

Ms. Elizabeth Spehar, Former Director of the Unit for the Promotion of Democracy at the Organization of American States
