Agenda Item No. 11(A)(13)

RESOLUTION NO. R-53-13

RESOLUTION URGING THE FLORIDA LEGISLATURE TO PASS LEGISLATION DURING THE 2013 SESSION LIMITING THE NUMBER OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS THE FLORIDA LEGISLATURE PROPOSES BY JOINT RESOLUTION TO NO MORE THAN FIVE QUESTIONS FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION BALLOTS AND FURTHER LIMITING THE LENGTH OF SUCH PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS TO NO MORE THAN 75 WORDS FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION BALLOTS

WHEREAS, during the 2011 session, the Florida Legislature passed seven (7) joint resolutions proposing constitutional amendments for placement on the November 2012 general election ballot; and

WHEREAS, the following year during the 2012 session, the Florida Legislature passed an additional four (4) joint resolutions proposing constitutional amendments for placement on the November 2012 general election ballot, resulting in a total of eleven (11) proposed constitutional amendments on the November 2012 general election ballot; and

WHEREAS, section 101.161, Florida Statutes, provides that the ballot summary of constitutional amendments shall not exceed 75 words in length; and

WHEREAS, this statutory limitation to 75 words, however, does not apply to constitutional amendments that the Florida Legislature proposes by joint resolution, as section 101.161 expressly exempts the Legislature from this requirement; and

WHEREAS, of the eleven (11) amendments on the November 2012 ballot, only three (3) had a ballot summary that met the 75 word limit; and

WHEREAS, six (6) of the eleven (11) amendments had more than 100 words, including one that had 664 words and one that had 585 words:

- Amendment 1, Health Care Services, 295 words;
- Amendment 2, Veterans disabled due to combat injury; homestead property tax discount; 68 words;
- Amendment 3, State government revenue limitation; 177 words;
- Amendment 4, Property tax limitations; property value decline; reduction for non-homestead assessment increases; 664 words
- Amendment 5, State courts; 585 words;
- Amendment 6, Prohibition of public funding of abortions; construction of abortion rights; 135 words;
- Amendment 7, removed from ballot
- Amendment 8, Religious freedom; 72 words;
- Amendment 9, Homestead property tax exemption for surviving spouse of military veteran or first responder; 107 words;
- Amendment 10, Tangible personal property tax exemption; 121 words;
- Amendment 11, Additional homestead exemption, low-income seniors who maintain long-term residency on property; 88 words; and
- Amendment 12, Appointment of student body president to Board of Governors of the State University System; 59 words; and

WHEREAS, due in part to the number and length of proposed constitutional amendments, the size of the November 2012 ballot in Miami-Dade County was unprecedented, with most voters receiving a five-page double-sided ballot (ten (10) pages in total), and voters in certain municipalities receiving a six-page double-sided ballot (12 pages in total); and

WHEREAS, having eleven (11) separate proposed constitutional amendments on the November 2012 ballot, combined with the length and complexity of the ballot summaries for these proposed constitutional amendments was a significant contributing factor to long lines and voter frustration during early voting and on election day; and

WHEREAS, it is perhaps telling that voters passed none of the six (6) proposed constitutional amendments with the longest ballot summaries, while voters approved three (3) of the five (5) amendments with the shortest ballot summaries; and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature should play by the same rules it imposes on others when it comes to proposed constitutional amendments; and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature should remove the exemption from state law that allows the Legislature itself to propose constitutional amendments with ballot summaries that exceed 75 words and have no word limit; and

WHEREAS, the Florida Legislature also should limit the number of constitutional amendments that it places on the ballot in a presidential election year to no more than five (5) in order to limit the length of the ballot, make the ballot more manageable for voters and reduce voter lines and frustration,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF MIAMI-DADE COUNTY, FLORIDA, that this Board:

Section 1. Urges the Florida Legislature to pass legislation during the 2013 session limiting the number of constitutional amendments the Florida Legislature proposes by joint resolution to no more than five questions for presidential election ballots and the length of such proposed constitutional amendments to no more than 75 words for presidential election ballots.
