February 28-March 4 | $860

LOCATION: Miami-Dade Public Safety Training Institute

HOTEL: InterContinental at Doral Miami, $149 Single/Double

This course is one in a 3-part series of enhanced "F.I.V.E." training evolutions. It is specifically designed to outline the circumstances in which High-Risk Traffic Stops and Felony Stops should be conducted, and how the tactic should be executed under varying circumstances. This course will also outline the ballistic limitations of a police vehicle when it is used as cover, develop skills related to deploying from a vehicle when in a threat situation, positioning for maximum effectiveness when using a vehicle as cover, counter-assault techniques and other protective movements when under fire, and coordinated vehicle assault and clearing procedures. On the last day, all students will apply and execute the different techniques and skills learned throughout the training by participating in a real-life scenario where they will engage in a dangerous encounter with combative subjects. Training will be accentuated into a realistic course by the use of live fire, non-lethal training simunitions, and close quarter combat to enhance the officer's skills needed to control violent subjects. These exercises will produce a physical and stressful element to simulate psychological and physiological effects of a potentially lethal confrontation. Surviving a gunfight may come down to how quickly you can properly apply a tourniquet to a wounded limb and get back in the fight. Yes, neutralizing the threat is a component of your survival, but if you've taken rounds your fight for life may have just started.

Here at the Miami-Dade Public Safety Training Institute, we are amongst the nation's law enforcement pioneers offering a 40-hour course titled Tactical Lifesaver (TLS). The course uses lecture, live-fire and force-on-force exercises to teach the basic skills you need in the field to stop your attacker and keep yourself alive until EMS can evac you to a trauma center.
