METRORAIL SERVICE EXTENDED FOR 2010 PRO BOWL

(MIAMI, Jan. 30, 2010) – Miami-Dade Transit will extend Metrorail service to provide rail transportation for those attending the 2010 Pro Bowl game on Sunday, Jan. 31, 2010. Rail services will be extended to match those being provided by Tri-Rail.

Miami-Dade Transit will provide service for customers traveling either northbound or southbound on Metrorail. A Metrorail northbound and southbound train will be standing by at the Tri-Rail Metrorail station and will depart after passengers make their transfer connection to Metrorail.

A southbound Tri-Rail train will depart from the Golden Glades Station approximately at 12 a.m., and a northbound train at approximately 12:30 a.m. Tri-Rail's southbound train will arrive at the Tri-Rail Metrorail station at approximately 12:15 a.m.

For more information on Metrorail's schedule, visit MDT's website at www.miamidade.gov/transit . For Tri-Rail schedule information, visit www.tri-rail.com .
