RECOMMENDATION

This is to request the Board of County Commission's (BCC) approval for Miami-Dade Transit (MDT) to partner with the South Florida Regional Transportation Authority (SFRTA) to co-host the 2007 Rail~Volution Conference, being held in Miami Beach, Florida from October 31st to November 4, 2007. BCC approval is also sought for MDT to receive up to $100,000 in goods and/or In-kind services in support of the Conference. Host responsibilities include, but are not limited to, the following:

(1) Programs (Plenary Sessions, Mobile Workshops, Opening Reception)
(2) Marketing
(3) Fundraising
(4) Scholarships & Home Stays
(5) Transit Passes

SCOPE

Although the Conference hotel is located on Miami Beach, mobile tours and charrettes are being held at multiple locations throughout Miami-Dade County. Activities stretch from the South Dade Busway to the Golden Glades Park 'n Ride and encompass Coral Gables, Downtown Miami, the Everglades and Key Biscayne, among other locations. The Conference focuses on the creation of livable, sustainable communities built around public transportation, primarily rail. Conference attendees will explore the county using the available transit systems, as well as by bicycle, boat and on foot.

FISCAL IMPACT / FUNDING SOURCE

TRACK RECORD / MONITOR

Rail~Volution 2007 is the 13th Annual Conference and marks the first time it has ever been held in a major city on the Southeastern Seaboard. Last year, there were more than 1,000 attendees at Rail~Volution 2006, which was held in Chicago. South Florida, Miami-Dade County in particular, was selected as the site of this year's Conference because of our "diverse population, an increasingly global economy, a series of strong transportation systems, a red-hot tourism industry and leaders who seek thoughtful solutions."

BACKGROUND

Given the allure of South Beach, it is expected that the attendance at Rail~Volution 2007 will equal, if not surpass, the attendance of 1,000 participants at last year's Conference in Chicago. It will be a substantial revenue generator for Miami-Dade County's economy. Participation in this Conference affords MDT the opportunity to showcase the County's transit system, existing and planned joint-development projects, and the future expansion of the Orange Line. The Conference includes "Mobile Workshops" which will encompass visits by Conference attendees from across the nation to MDT's joint-development projects such as the Dadeland South Datran Facility and Station, the Dadeland North Station Retail and Residential Project, the Santa Clara and Allapattah Station residential developments, the Martin Luther King Station and Miami-Dade County Administration Building Project, the SFRTA Golden Glades and Metrorail Transfer Stations, development sites at the South Miami, Northside and Okeechobee Metrorail Stations, as well as the Miami Intermodal Center (MIC). Additionally, the Conference will allow MDT personnel to interact with transit and business professionals from around the country for first-hand insight on the successful creation of transit-oriented-development projects in other areas.

Rail~Volution, a 501(c)(3) non-profit charitable organization, is comprised of people from all perspectives who believe strongly in the role of land use and transit as equal partners in the quest for greater livability and greater communities. Over the past nine years, Rail~Volution has been shaping efforts nationwide to build livable communities with transit and transit development opportunities. Through education and advocacy, leading to increased public funds for transit, Rail~Volution is helping to position transit as one of the major infrastructure solutions to growing concerns about traffic congestion and livability in America's towns and cities.

Rail~Volution Partners & Affiliates

Rail~Volution Partners & Affiliates are organizations, companies, and agencies representing public and private sector interests that contribute to the success of the Rail~Volution Conference each year. In many cases, involvement includes representation on the National Steering Committee for which MDT has representation. Rail~Volution Partners & Affiliates for 2006 are listed below:

Partners

- American Public Transportation Association (APTA) - Rail~Volution is the only outside Conference to receive funds from APTA
- Bay Area Rapid Transit District
- City and County of Denver, Colorado
- City of Portland, Oregon
- City of Dallas, Texas

- Dallas Area Rapid Transit

Dear Applicant:

Our letter dated September 10, 2001, stated you would be exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, and you would be treated as a public charity, rather than as a private foundation, during an advance ruling period.

Based on the information you submitted, you are classified as a public charity under the Code section listed in the heading of this letter. Since your exempt status was not under consideration, you continue to be classified as an organization exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Code.

Publication 557, Tax-Exempt Status for Your Organization, provides detailed information about your rights and responsibilities as an exempt organization. You may request a copy by calling the toll-free number for forms, (800) 829-3676. Information is also available on our Internet Web Site at www.irs.gov.

If you have general questions about exempt organizations, please call our toll-free number shown in the heading between 8:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Eastern time.

Please keep this letter in your permanent records.

We have sent a copy of this letter to your representative as indicated in your power of attorney.

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

How do you design a great transit oriented development and a multimodal center at the same site? I-95's Golden Glades Interchange is the meeting point for Tri-Rail, Greyhound, Miami-Dade Transit and Broward County Transit. Currently, transit operations, parking and bus shelters are located on an over 30 acre, Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) owned site adjacent to the Interchange. The site also borders several local cities and is surrounded by a challenging roadway network. FDOT is juggling all of these issues as they look towards joint development in the future. Come help contemplate the future of the site at this all day event.

S02 Lake Worth Tri-Rail Station (10 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

Creating a great plan for your rail station area requires careful collaboration among a variety of technical disciplines, public agencies and citizen stakeholders. How do you decide how much land should be set aside for parking versus joint development? How large should the rail facility be and how can you reduce its negative impacts? How can the station area support more walking? And finally, what is the right amount of density? Participants will apply these questions to Tri-Rail's Lake Worth Station, located in a progressive city in central Palm Beach County. Adjacent to Interstate 95, the station is surrounded by low-rise, multi-family housing, a 200- acre industrial park, and a large municipal park. It is bordered by a high school, historic Downtown Lake Worth, the emerging Florida East Coast Railway Corridor, and a direct ocean connection at the Lake Worth Pier. Please join us for this all-day interactive workshop.

Florida's "River of Grass" is the basis of the ecosystem for the entire southern half of the state. Travel by airboat back into the "Glades" and, with the supervision of an experienced guide, explore nature as you probably have never seen it! Spot rare species of animals, fish and birds as you float among the sawgrass and the cypress. On the way, hear about the Comprehensive Everglades Restoration Plan and learn about Everglades National Park.

M02 Fort Lauderdale Walking Tour (5 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

The Downtown Development Authority is overseeing the $7.8 million Transportation Demonstration Project, which focuses on developing a transit master plan that will provide a range of travel options within the downtown region. One of the key components of the project is a demonstration transit shuttle system that will link various destinations in the downtown to nearby parking facilities. The project also includes corridor improvements, such as streetscape amenities, including landscaping, shaded sidewalks, lighting and street furniture. In the future, a light-rail line will replace the city's trolley, making Fort Lauderdale a premiere city for living, working and visiting.

C00 Livable Community Building for Elected Officials

Session Coordinator: Phil Selinger- 503.962.2137

This introductory breakfast is directed at community leaders and elected officials who may be new to the concepts of livability and using transit to build great communities. This breakfast will present an overview of these concepts, how they make communities more livable and economically sustainable and how they can be translated into policies and municipal code. A panel of leaders from communities that have been busy with this agenda will present strategies for engaging the community and building civic and business support for this agenda. Lessons of success and failure will be shared. Finally, the session will consider the tools at your disposal to help implement these polices and secure funds to aid in their implementation.

M03 Coral Gables Walking Tour (4 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

The beautiful city of Coral Gables is one of Florida's first planned communities. The city boasts one of only three registered national landmarks in Miami-Dade County and an impressive nine properties on the National Register of Historic Places. In November 2003, Coral Gables launched a free service using environmentally friendly, hybrid-electric trolleys. Guided by representatives from the city of Coral Gables and the Historical Museum of South Florida, the tour will visit (on foot and by trolley) the Village of Merrick Park (a mixed-use, public- private partnership), the historic Miracle Mile shopping district and other historic sites within the city.

South Miami is both a small community on the Metrorail system and an exciting pedestrian area favored by University of Miami students. The city also illustrates how transit and land use can complement each other. Hear city representatives and transit planners discuss the form-based code used for its downtown area and the efforts to create a transit-oriented development ordinance. The tour includes a visit to the new upscale Shops at Sunset Place near the South Miami Metrorail Station, which helps to create a vibrant area for shopping, sidewalk cafes and entertainment.

C01 Introduction to Building Livable Communities with Transit (4 hours)

Session Coordinator: Phil Selinger- 503.962.2137

This introductory (4-hour) session will provide attendees with an overview of how rail transit can be a catalyst for creating more livable communities. Attendees will learn by example of how communities have changed for the better by creating higher density, mixed-use communities where a greater percentage of trips are on foot, bike or transit. The session will show how barriers such as parking and zoning codes can be overcome and how to convert critics to supporters of livable communities. Included will be examples of real results and how these changes lead to more livable communities where people enjoy better health, diversity and increased property values.

A025 Planning for the Future

Session Coordinator: Diego Cardoso- 213.922.3076

Essentially all urban areas have old railroad rights-of-way criss-crossing their areas. As time passed, these corridors were abandoned, eliminating a transportation asset that could potentially never be regained. With renewed interest in national security and freight movement, these corridors are taking on an added value, which may or may not be supportive of passenger movements. What are urban areas doing these days to preserve these corridors? Can they be used for both freight and passenger movements? What might their multiple use do for creating sustainable communities?

L024 Mega-Infrastructure for Mega-Regions

Session Coordinator: Gloria Ohland- 323.222.5508

OVERVIEW: How do we plan and fund the mega-infrastructure required to sustain our emerging mega-regions?
DESCRIPTION: Urban "economic power corridors" like the one stretching from Boston to New York to Washington have become the real economic organizing units of the world, producing the bulk of its wealth, attracting the most talent, and generating the lion's share of innovation. The huge economic advantages of clustering give these "mega-regions" the competitive edge. But how can we muster the political will and launch the large-scale planning and financing initiatives - meantime mitigating community opposition and environmental impacts - to build and manage the infrastructure necessary to keep our mega-regions economically competitive?

A029 Role of PPPs for Transit and TOD

Session Coordinator: Bill Sirois- 303.299.2417

OVERVIEW:
DESCRIPTION: Public private partnerships (PPPs) are gaining popularity in the United States as an infrastructure financing mechanism. FTA recently came out with its Public Private Partenship Pilot Program (Penta P) to encourage PPPs for transit projects entering New Starts. Listen to experts discuss the role of PPPs for transit, how PPPs are being structured for transit, and what role TOD is having in the whole process. Panelists include a representative from the investment advisors for two of the threes designated Penta P projects, APTA lead staff person on PPPs, and a representative from the private consortium involved a ground breaking transit

PPP in United States.

A094 TODs and Responsible Development in Established Communities

Session Coordinator: GB Arrington- 503.274.2298

OVERVIEW: Hear about how TOD has been used to catalyze market interest in communities where a greater level of sensitivity and responsibility is needed.
DESCRIPTION: By 2030 demand for higher density development near rail stations is predicted to more than double, meaning that in order to meet demand we'd need to build 2,000 more units of housing near every one of the 4,000 existing and planned stations in the U.S. But despite the market, building TOD projects sensitively and responsibily in established neighborhoods continues to face significant challenges. Learn how regions around the country have been able to market transit as an asset and capture the demand for TOD without losing their history and character and existing affordable housing.

M11 Dadeland South Metrorail Walking Tour (4 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

Dadeland South, or downtown Kendall, is the southern terminus of the Metrorail line and represents a textbook example of transit-oriented development. Initiated by the local chamber of commerce, the project's planning process led to a successful, form-based code that has created a roadmap for converting an auto-intensive area into a mixed-used community along two Metrorail stations. The significance of the ordinance will be visible on this tour - as evidenced by the densities and the colonnades required for creating a pedestrian atmosphere in this tropical environment.

D101 Lessons Learned About Retail and TOD: It's Still the Hardest Part

Session Coordinator: Jeff Ordway- 510.464.6114

OVERVIEW: This discussion is on the lessons learned about retail and TOD.
DESCRIPTION: Presentations on the Fruitvale BART station, Mockingbird Station in Dallas, and ?? (we need a third example) will focus on the lessons learned about retail and its design and positioning in a TOD project. Where should commuter parking structures be placed? Is visibility to motorists essential? Can a local-merchants-only policy ever work? How about a locals-first policy? Does it work best to create retail space that can also function as live-work space until the location proves itself in the market? Does there always have to be retail? Where does groundfloor retail work and where isn't it working?

C11 Transit Oriented Development Principles

Session Coordinator: GB Arrington- 503.274.2298

OVERVIEW: Expand your understanding of TOD and how you might know it when you see it! TOD projects have three fundamental characteristics that enhance transit ridership: 1) a mix of moderate to high intensity land uses; 2) a physical or functional connection to the transit system; and 3) design features that create a walkable environment by reinforcing pedestrian relationships and scale. Proximity of development to transit alone is not enough. These workshops explore the properties of TOD and how to promote the most attractive and effective TOD for the community.

C02 Building Livable Communities

Session Coordinator: Effie Stallsmith- 202.366.5653

OVERVIEW: Livable Communities don't happen by accident - plans, policies and deliberate actions.
There is a direct link between regional and local land use decision-making and the success or failure of creating livable communities. Well-considered land use policies can facilitate profitable TOD projects and TOD projects that make good use of local land use policies maximize economic potential.

A121 TODs versus Park-n-Rides – A Transit Parking Dilemma

Session Coordinator: Bill Sirois- 303.299.2417

OVERVIEW:
DESCRIPTION: Transit agencies typically face a dilemma when planning and designing rail stations along a corridor or as a system - parking versus TOD. The debate centers around whether transit parking or TOD better serve the transit customer. Several factors influence the decision on which way to go including land use and parking policies by the region and local jurisdictions, political pressure from residents and businesses, station location - urban vs suburban, station accessibility and other factors. Listen to different perspectives on this dilemma from transit agencies in Portland, Denver, and Minneapolis/St. Paul.

A076 Improving the Process for Joint Development

Session Coordinator: Rich Weaver- 202.496.4809

In February, the Federal Transit Administration issued new joint development policy guidance which offers greater flexibility and new opportunities for joint development and intermodal facilities. The new policy makes it easier and more economically feasible to develop facilities with private sector operators and developers. Attend the session and hear what changes were made, what they mean for you and your community, and how joint development and intermodal facilities can serve as a catalysts for transit oriented development.

D133 The Fundamentals of Value: How to Create and Capture Value

Session Coordinator: Gloria Ohland- 323.222.5508

OVERVIEW: TOD creates value that can be captured and reinvested in a community; this workshop explains how.
DESCRIPTION: TOD concentrates development and activity and the tax base in a way that allows for focused value capture strategies - like rents, property and sales taxes, fees, assessment districts, tax increment financing, public-private partnerships and joint development. This value can then be captured and reinvested - in the community and in the transit system, in building new lines and stations, even in operations. Learn about the value curve - when is value actually created? - value capture strategies, and the results.

C07 Understanding and Using Federal Legislation and Regulations

Session Coordinator: Rich Weaver- 202.496.4809

OVERVIEW: How to find one's way through the legislative maze and build Federal agency partnerships.
Finding ones way through the legislative maze is a challenge for the most experienced agency. Rail-Volution brings in the experts - the FTA, APTA and consultants to explain this process, including the latest legislative developments for both transit and "joint development". This session meets the needs of the transit development newcomer, but also provides a perennial forum for reviewing new legislative proposals.

M13 Transit-Oriented Developments along the Busway (5 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

The final leg of Miami-Dade County's US 1 Busway connects the communities bordering the Florida Keys to the Dadeland South Metrorail Station. Communities along the busway have initiated transit-oriented planning for future development that complements the busway, and new zoning is in place around four of the stations. This tour will illustrate how communities are evolving along the busway, as well as the county's effort in planning ahead with the community. The workshop will also include a short walking tour to Homestead's historic downtown area.

M14 Trains and Planes - Henry Flagler's Coach Tour (5 hours)

Session Coordinator: Lynda Westin- 954.788.7923

Travel by air-conditioned bus and learn about colorful tycoon Henry Flagler, who brought his East Coast Railway to Miami in 1896. The tour starts on Flagler Street in downtown Miami and includes a look at the location of Flagler's Florida East Coast Railway Station, Flagler's historic church, and the Art Deco Pan Am Building. Story-telling is an added bonus on this tour, as a historical expert talks about how Flagler lived and died. Follow the old Florida East Coast right-of-way south to the Gold Coast Railroad Museum, where you can board a historical train and play with model railroads.

T01 TOD Marketplace

Session Coordinator: Gloria Ohland- 323.222.5508

If you crave on-the-ground, energizing discussions about new opportunities for shaping livable communities, then this is a must. The TOD Marketplace follows up on last year's success - providing a forum in which developers, investors, transit agencies, cities and property owners can meet and greet, talk about the art of the deal, or strike up an actual deal. A panel of national developers will present three case studies that explore the solicitation process (RFP's and RFQ's) for successful TOD projects. These expert panelists will talk about what the market wants, as well as steps that can be taken to entice more developer and investor interest. V Break-out table discussion topics will include: pre-development funding challenges, equity financing sources, public financing, navigating the entitlement process, strategies to preserve affordability, and minority contracting. Cities and transit agencies are invited to display local development opportunities at tables around the room.

C08 Financing Livable Communities

Session Coordinator: David Knowles- 503.499.0206

OVERVIEW: Identifying funding sources, working with institutions, creative packaging and getting the help you need to turn plans into reality
Financing is a key question for transit and joint development. This core topic covers funding sources and options available to communities to help implement transit and joint development projects. Experts provide information on the latest techniques that provide the most TOD bang for the buck - including the use of partnerships in various forms.
Also examined are trends in regional decision making that promote TOD development and how the community building vision can build local support and success at the ballot box for transit and community-building programs.

Date: Fri - 11/2/2007 Time: 2:00 PM Room: Poinciana Room 1

Participants:

1. Moderator: Bob LaPore, DMJM+Harris
2. Speaker: Robert Roticci, Senior Vice President, Costa Pacific Communities
3. Speaker: Brian Newman, Councilor, Metro

C09 Making Sure Transit Fits Comfortably into Existing Communities and Neighborhoods

Session Coordinator: Tim Baldwin- 303.293.8080

OVERVIEW: An exploration of how transit improvements often follow local development decisions for better or worse.
This core curriculum session will provide an overview of how different communities are successfully implementing new transit modes and stations in existing neighborhoods. It will provide an overview of commuter rail, streetcar, and bus rapid transit planning in established communities and how those systems responded to local needs and desires. It will also provide a good introduction to other core curriculum sessions that will focus on specific case studies in this area.

Date: Fri - 11/2/2007 Time: 2:00 PM Room: Poinciana Room 2

Participants:

1. Moderator: Jean Sanson, Senior Planner, URS Corporation
2. Speaker: Al Raine, Vice President / National TOD Practice Leader, DMJM+Harris
3. Speaker: Franklin Conaway, Redevelopment Consultant, Franklin B. Conaway & Associates

A061 Advancing the Case for Complete Streets

Session Coordinator: Rich Weaver- 202.496.4809

OVERVIEW: Designing Streets for the Other Modes: How to create walkable, bikable streets that enhance community livability.
Too many streets are designed only for speeding cars and not taking into consideration that they are for everyone, whether young or old , motorist or bicyclist, walker or wheel chair user. Communities across the country are asking their planner, engineers and designers to build road networks that welcome all citizens. The presentation will focus on elements of complete street policies and present design elements for complete streets.

Date: Fri - 11/2/2007 Time: 2:00 PM Room: Poinciana Room 3

Participants:

1. Moderator: Rich Weaver, Senior Project Manager, Planning and Programs, APTA
2. Speaker: Barbara McCann, Principal, McCann Consulting

A091 Rail Corridors- What works, What doesn't and Why

Session Coordinator: Fred Arnold- 916.321.3896

What are the unique challenges and opportunities for economic development presented by streetcars and light rail? What do developers think? What incentives should cities offer (or not) to get the right type of development to follow. A panel of experts, developers, and politicians will address the issue.

C12 Parking in the Livable Community

Session Coordinator: Jeff Ordway- 510.464.6114

OVERVIEW: Learn how parking can enable access to transit and support neighborhood needs, yet also serve TOD objectives.
Parking is a paradox when it comes to building communities with transit. Even the most transit-oriented community requires parking for residents and business. Transit agencies are additionally faced with providing access for citizens not living near transit. Buried or structured parking can bankrupt the TOD project and exceed the scope of the transit project. Parking can be shared and managed in ways that mitigate some of these challenges. This workshop explores the various dimensions of parking near transit - development, financing, shared use, management and conversion.

C10 Beyond Bus and Rail: Alternative and Healthy Options in the Livable Community

Session Coordinator: Tim Baldwin- 303.293.8080

OVERVIEW: Learn how to create well-scaled environments that are pedestrian, bike and transit friendly and contributing to livable communities.
This core curriculum session will provide an overview of the latest ideas related to non-motorized transportation modes and will focus on research, policies, regulations, and trends related to walking and biking - all ways to make healthier, more livable communities. Good design, thoughtful architecture and public art, and well-scaled facilities are part of this consideration. It will be a good introduction to more focused workshops on specific programs and planning ideas on these topics.

A111 TOOLBOX: Principles of Community Supportive Transit

Session Coordinator: GB Arrington- 503.274.2298

"Thinking Beyond the Station" is a training program to help promulgate a philosophy and approach of "Community Supportive Transit" to guide planning decisions related to the design and planning of transit facilities and station areas, including opportunities for placemaking and capturing the value of public transportation investments for local communities. We will begin to identify such qualities and characteristics of "CST" in Norfolk, VA in July and in Denver, CO in August. The results of these presentations and discussions of best TOD and placemaking practices will be presented, and audience members, particularly Transit Board Members and other interested participants, will be invited to get in on the ground floor by helping to further define these terms. This session also will include discussion of how the "Thinking Beyond the Station" program can be structured to support transit agencies to develop community-supportive transit service and facilities.

Date: Fri - 11/2/2007 Time: 4:00 PM Room: Poinciana Room 3

Participants:

1. Moderator: Rick Simonetta, CEO, Valley Metro Rail

2. Speaker: Fred Kent, President, Project for Public Spaces

C13 Climate Change and Sustainability: Our Legacy for the Future

Session Coordinator: Diana Mendes- 202.251.4930

Increasingly, climate change and sustainability issues are capturing our attention on both a personal and professional level. This session will provide an overview of how the transportation and land use decisions we make today and in the future will affect future generations. Participants will learn the basic principles behind the crisis, as well as the choices available to us to change our legacy.

A062 Station environments

Session Coordinator: Diane Legge Kemp- 312.322.2550

OVERVIEW:
DESCRIPTION:Transit-oriented development usually includes the design of the station and its environment, but sometimes the station is designed without or before the development. This hands-on, analytical workshop will challenge participants to think about stations as being the catalyst for redevelopment or new development of its environs. We will look at a variety of real scenarios where the station environment worked - and where it didn't. BYOSSS! (Bring your own station story to share.)

L131 Leadership in an Era of Energy and Climate Crisis

Session Coordinator: Diana Mendes- 202.251.4930

OVERVIEW:
DESCRIPTION: The impending energy and climate change crises place new demands on our leaders. Leading through any change is difficult, but in light of the media spotlight on sustainability and the emotional depth of public concern for these issues, our transportation leadership has risen to the challenge of providing innovative solutions and strategies. Participants will hear from the executive leadership of transit providers throughout the country about their commitment to change management and the actions they have taken to advance a green agenda at their agencies.

Memorandum

MIAMI-DADE COUNTY

Date: November 6, 2007

To: Honorable Chairman Bruno A. Barreiro
and Members, Board of County Commissioners

From: George M. Burgess
County Manager

Subject: Countywide Specific In-Kind Request Recommendation

The Office of Strategic Business Management (OSBM) has reviewed the attached in-kind request and recommends for the item to move forward to the Board of County Commissioners for consideration. The countywide specific in-kind reserve balance allows for the funding of this request.

Background

A retroactive waiver for in-kind services has been requested by a not-for-profit organization the Rail Volution for the "Rail Volution Conference" to be held October 31 thru November 4, 2007.

In-kind services have been requested in an amount not to exceed $35,000 from the Miami-Dade Transit Agency for transportation services and 1,000 bus passes. This event will be funded from the Countywide in-kind reserve fund.

In FY 2007-08, Rail Volution has received no County funding for this event.
