WATER

May is National Water Safety Month

When the weather heats up, there's nothing more refreshing than spending time in or on the water. If you are making the pool, beach or ocean a part of your day, make sure that water safety is your top priority! For parents, making sure your children know how to swim is easy with Miami-Dade Parks Learn-to-Swim program. Certified American Red Cross Water Safety Instructors will teach children, as young as two years old, the fundamentals of water safety and swimming.

Even if your child is a swimmer, enroll them in one of the advanced swimming level classes where they can perfect their strokes and become stronger swimmers. Parents are reminded to actively supervise children whenever around the water—even if lifeguards are present, and to always stay within arm's reach of young children and avoid distractions when supervising children around water. Arming young people with water safety information and swimming lessons at an early age can prevent drowning. 🐬

- Learn-to-Swim classes are taught by Certified American Red Cross Water Safety Instructors
- Classes include: Parent & Tot ages 2-5 • Levels 1-6 ages 6-18 • Adults
- Find a list of pools at www.miamidade.gov/parks
- Note: All pools are outdoors. Pool lifts are available at all pools. Miami-Dade Parks welcomes children and adults with disabilities in its swimming programs. If you need accommodations to participate, call 305-755-7848 (V/TDD).

Do Your Children Know How To Swim?

The Parks Foundation of Miami-Dade, with the support of donors and corporate partners, is working to prevent unnecessary drowning incidents in Miami-Dade County by providing children and families with Learn-to-Swim scholarships.

SAFETY

Celebrate National Safe Boating Week May 21-27

National Safe Boating Week is designed to remind boaters to practice safe boating.

No matter how much boating experience you have, it's always a good idea to have a boating plan and review boating safety rules before heading out on open seas.

Coastal Park & Marinas Enterprise Manager Tom Morgan wants you to have the best day out at sea and offers these tips, "As a reminder to ensure a fun, safe day on the water, please check your safety gear, dock lines and trailer. Be observant, respect other boaters and don't splash your trash!" 🍃

Miami-Dade Parks operates six, full-service marinas

- Crandon Park Marina, 4000 Crandon Blvd., Key Biscayne, 305-361-1281
- Matheson Hammock Marina, 9610 Old Cutler Rd., Miami, 305-665-5475
- Black Point Marina, 24775 SW 87 Ave., Miami, 305-258-4092
- Herbert Hoover Marina Homestead Bayfront Park, 9698 SW 328 St., Homestead, 305-230-3033
- Bill Bird Marina Haulover Park, 10800 Collins Ave., Miami, 305-947-3525
- Pelican Harbor Marina, 1275 NE 79th St., Miami, 305-754-9330

Boating Tips For Fun and Safety

Always...

- Wear a life jacket. Most boating fatalities occur from drowning. US Coast Guard statistics show 88% of victims could have survived if they had worn a personal flotation device (PFD).
- Have a fire extinguisher onboard.
- Test boat lights before you cast off. If you use battery-operated lights, bring extra batteries.
- Designate a sober "skipper" to drive the boat.
- Watch the weather.
- Develop a float plan – give a responsible person details about where you will be and how long you will be gone.
- Hydrate – bring along plenty of water to drink.

Before heading out to launch...

Contact marinas for updates on important information in order to avoid delays, such as:

- Best times to launch;
- Traffic and parking conditions;
- Availability and affordability of short-term wet slips.

Sign up for the free Miami-Dade Marina SMS Alerts at www.miamidade.gov/wps/portal/Main/marinaalerts.

This service keeps boaters up-to-date on issues such as hazardous weather conditions, and boat ramp closures and re-openings via text alerts to their email or mobile phone.

Honoring Women Leaders

Miami-Dade County women are recognized for their influence and achievements

Women have been leaving their mark on history throughout the ages. References to famous women are found as far back as ancient manuscripts and Old Testament Bible passages, to modern day news stories. They are the subject of novels, plays, paintings and films. Women have been influential in advancing the sciences, medicine, arts, music, law, literature, politics, sports and the list goes on.

It's no different here in South Florida where 12 industry leaders and unsung heroes were recognized during the 28th Annual In the Company of Women Awards Ceremony, presented by Macy's, on March 3, 2016, at the Coral Gables Country Club. Each March, in celebration of Women's History Month, Miami-Dade Parks, Recreation and Open Spaces, in partnership

Celebrating Earth Day

Although April 22 has been designated Earth Day, every day is Earth Day.

Each morning when the sun rises it should remind us of the preciousness of the planet we live on, and the importance of maintaining and sustaining it for future generations. When the first Earth Day was celebrated back in 1970, it gave voice to a movement and a consciousness to environmental issues. It asked earthlings the question, "What are you doing to better the earth?"

On April 22, make sure you take the time to honor the planet you live on!

EarthFest

Saturday, April 23 • noon – 5 p.m.

To celebrate Earth Day, Miami-Dade EcoAdventures will be hosting EarthFest. Everyone is invited for a fun-filled day of free activities, seminars and interactive exhibits.

For more information, call 305-666-5885 or visit www.miamiecoadventures.com.

If you can't make it out to EarthFest, do your part and get planting! Earth Day 2016 has been designated: Trees for the Earth and over the next five years, the goal is to plant 7.8 billion trees.

Trees help combat climate change. They absorb excess and harmful CO₂ from our atmosphere. In a single year, an acre of mature trees absorbs the same amount of CO₂ produced by driving the average car 26,000 miles. Trees help us breathe clean air. Trees absorb odors and pollutant gases (nitrogen oxides, ammonia, sulfur dioxide and ozone) and filter particulates out of the air by trapping them on their leaves and bark. Trees help communities achieve long-term economic and environmental sustainability and provide food, energy and income. 🌱

DID YOU KNOW? Neat Streets Miami launched the Million Trees Miami program in 2011 to help grow our tree canopy and has already planted 190,000 trees! Visit www.neatstreetsmiami.com.

You Don't Have To Be A Pro To Play At The Miami Open!

Juniors take to the courts for championship match

Since 2013, the Youth Sports Championship Series has helped kids build a strong foundation of organized sports, and with the partnership between Miami-Dade Parks, USTA Florida and IMG — a sports and marketing organization — it has given local junior tennis players an opportunity of a lifetime: to play tennis at the same facility where their professional idols play.

During the internationally renowned Miami Open, youth players, ages 8-12, vie for a chance at the Mayor's Cup. The Mayor's Cup is the finale to the Miami Junior Tennis Cup, a two-day tournament held Tamiami Park Tennis Center.

Last year, Yubel Ubri took home the 2015 Mayor's Cup at the Miami Open. "Yubel is a fast learner in all of the areas of his life," dad Yubelnal Ubri shared. "He is a natural athlete that advanced so well at a young age that he often competes in divisions of older kids."

Not only do these tennis pro hopefuls participate in the tournament, many of them train at the Tamiami Park Tennis Center. Considering the park's commitment to youth programs, it's not hard to imagine why.

Tamiami Park Tennis Center is one of the most unique venues in the country. It is the first tennis facility to have courts for kids. These include a 36-foot, 60-foot and 78-foot courts, as well as having blended lines on all of its full-size courts. "USTA Florida is so excited that tennis is now easier for young children with shorter courts and modified equipment to make tennis user-friendly for all players," says USTA Florida tennis program coordinator Cathy Nordlund. The program is run by the Friends of Miami Tennis Inc. www.FriendsOfMiamiTennis.com — a non-profit that offers unique training for kids.

While the win is nice, Yubelnal, reminds his son that no matter what the outcome, "he is always a winner and my number one!" The same philosophy the tennis program at Tamiami Parks instills in all of its players!

The 2016 Miami Junior Tennis Cup has expanded to give even more local kids an opportunity to showcase their skills. For more information on the Miami Junior Tennis Cup and other Youth Sports Championship Series events, visit www.PlayMiami.org.

Ready For A 'Reel' Good Time?

Second annual fishing event is fun for the whole family

If you haven't experienced the thrill of casting a rod or felt the tug of a catch at the end of a pole – now's your chance! The second annual "Vamos a Pescar" (Let's go fishing, Miami!) festival is the perfect time for children and families to enjoy a day of fishing and the great outdoors.

The event takes place on Sunday, April 3, 2016 from 11 a.m. – 4 p.m. at Tropical Park, 7900 S.W. 40 Street in Miami, and features activities in and around the water like canoeing, kayaking and fishing of course!

"This event is the perfect opportunity for people who have wanted to fish but have been afraid to get their hands dirty," Recreation Specialist Robbie Carmona shared. "We take care of everything. If you don't want to touch the bait, we'll hook it for you and show you how to unhook your catch. We want people to forget their fears about fishing and learn to love the sport!"

For the Weckel family the event was a great time to bond with one another.

With Daniel, age 11, and Robert and Christina both 10 in tow, mom Angie took her family to the lake because "they were excited to try fishing activities," she shared. "It was great that the rods and worms were free."

All of the Weckels believe in parks. "My kids have been going to the park's summer camp for years and have taken swimming lessons at the pool at A.D. Barnes pool since they were three years old," she continued. "Our favorite park is A.D. Barnes, especially because of the pool, nature center, summer camp, trees and playground."

Last year, the lake was stocked with 9,000 catfish and an additional 3,000 will be added in a process known as lake stocking. Fish feeders have been installed to condition fish to populate the areas in which people will fish, which means that the odds of hookin' a live one is good! Rods, reels, tackle and bait are all provided free of charge.

Along with fishing, there will be boating skills clinics, sport shooting education, a Daisy® inflatable BB gun range, and wildlife presentations.

For information, you may contact Robbie Carmona at 305-361-6767 ext. 112 or RCARMON@miamidade.gov. 🐟

THE GREAT PARK PLAN

It's always been about our commitment to build a greener, more accessible Miami-Dade

It's always been about making Miami-Dade County a better place to live, where people feel safe and have seamless, open access to parks, public spaces, natural and cultural areas, greenways and trails – where everyone can enjoy a better quality of life. Putting that commitment into action, the Miami-Dade Parks, Recreation and Open Spaces Department created a plan to make Miami-Dade more equitable, more accessible, more sustainable, more beautiful and with more ways to explore it.

In 2008, the Open Space Master Plan was born.

The plan created a framework for creating a more livable and sustainable community – a community that connects people from all areas of the county to one another, to explore an unlimited amount of possibilities. The foundation of the plan is built on six guiding principles: Equity, Access, Beauty, Multiple Benefits, Sustainability and Seamlessness.

You may not realize it, but parks have always been a part of your life. Think about some of your most cherished memories. Memories of learning to ride a bike or watching your child win their first ballgame. Memories where you relaxed in an open space. Was there a park somewhere in the background? Those memories are priceless, and make parks powerful.

According to the National Recreation and Park Association, four in five Americans agree that their local parks are worth the tax dollars invested in them, and most Americans agree that they are an integral part of their lives. For Miami-Dade resident Leticia Delatorre Gunn, her neighborhood park has become a place for making memories.

When Gunn purchased her northeast Miami home in 2008 she and her family were among a small handful of residents on the block. The neighborhood was full of abandoned houses. There was crime and the park that sits right in front of her house, Military Trail Park, was overgrown and ignored. She didn't feel like it was a safe place for her or her family.

"We saw the potential in the neighborhood and we were confident that the right people would too. Slowly but surely, people started moving in and demanding change."

That attitude quickly caught on and became advocacy, and that advocacy led to change.

One by one families and residents came together, voicing the need for improvements to their park. Spearheaded by resident Adrian Lorenzo, who galvanized residents and inspired them to find their voices, residents reached out to Miami-Dade Parks, the Miami-Dade Police Department and Commissioner Audrey Edmonson to get things moving.

"Persistence and a great community with a goal can make a dream into a reality. Parks create a deep sense of community while protecting our natural environment,” Lorenzo declared.

The first item on their to-do list was to get the grass mowed and on a regular cutting schedule. Next, through the Parks department, establish a Park Watch Patrol where staff drives by in the evening to shine a bright light on the area to break up unwelcome activity. Then a beautification plan was implemented and the park saw new plants and greenery. The empty lot adjacent to the park was purchased by Parks for future use, and residents will soon enjoy an illuminated walking path when new light poles are installed.

This dialogue among residents, civic leaders and the Parks department is an example of how neighbors who care can make a difference in their parks.

Now it's time for all of Miami to demand more parks and open spaces.

The Parks department is hosting the Great Park Summit on April 15, 2016, bringing together elected officials and influential leaders from local municipalities, urban planning professionals, health and wellness experts, students, the business community, developers and environmental stewards, for an engaging discussion on how to build a better community through parks. The conversation will highlight how innovative planning, design and development, and the stewardship of public spaces can be catalysts for a healthier, greener, more economically vibrant community.

“This summit is for everyone. If you live, work or play in Miami-Dade County and want to be a part of the change, join us,” Eric Hansen urged. “This is an open discussion that impacts everyone. The goals of the plan focus on open access to parks and public green spaces where all residents, regardless of income, age, race or ability, can take a short walk to a central neighborhood park to enjoy the outdoors and feel safe doing so,” added Hansen.

Today, Delatorre Gunn celebrates her neighborhood's victory. Her granddaughters ride their bikes and enjoy every corner of their beautiful park. Watching them race each other down the path she smiles noting that “this park created our community.”

It's become the place for her to make memories.

Unleash the power of parks.
