

Effective destruction of trees through improper and excessive pruning also known as topping or hat-racking

Trenching or excavating within the critical root zone of a tree may be considered effective destruction depending on the amount of the root system that has been impacted.

The intentional girdling of a tree's trunk to kill the tree is considered effective destruction.

