Description of Project/Bid:

Clear is a secure, web-based investigative interface that allows criminal investigators and analysts to easily access public records and related information. This software increases the efficiency and effectiveness of investigations by providing access to a vast array of catalogued public information and proprietary data on people and businesses. More specifically, the contract provides access to critical investigative information such as license plate recognition data, utility data, real-time incarceration and arrest records, information originating from all three major credit bureaus, cellular phone data, information from social networking sites, and more. This data is a benefit to law enforcement when attempting to locate people and assets, verifying identities, pinpointing businesses and business
